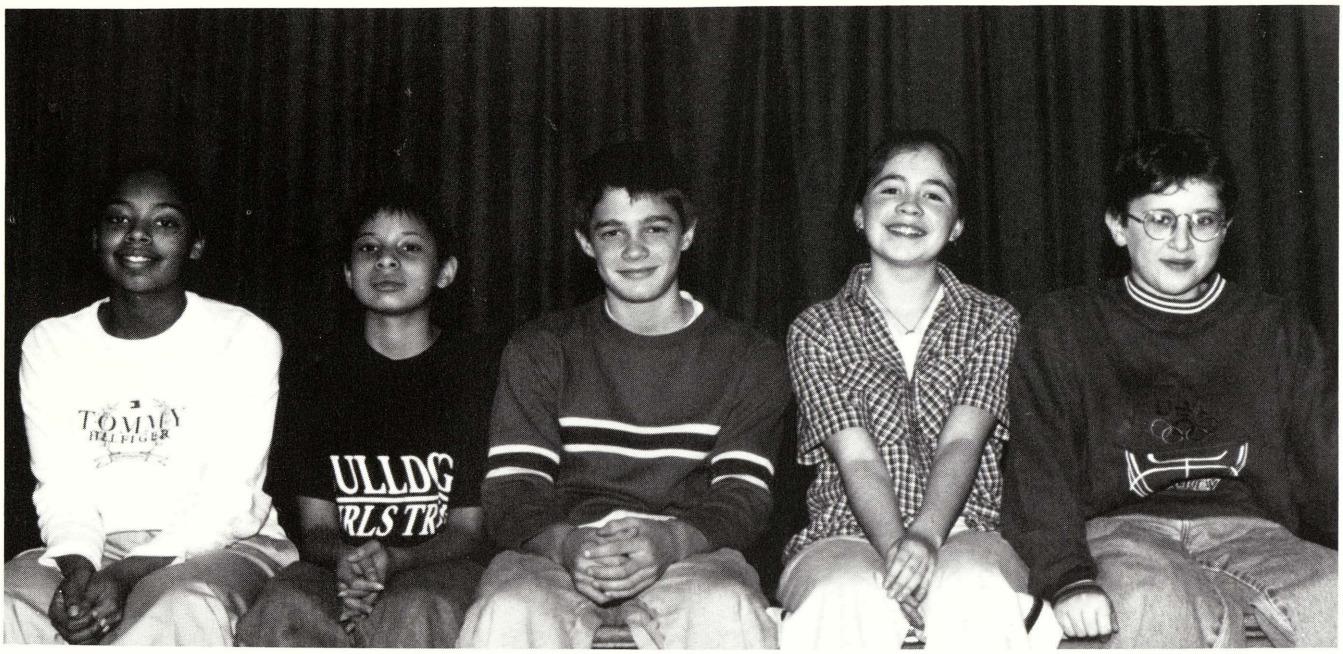
(Above) Jacob Kohut, Juan Gonzales, and Tim Hammer represented South at the Optimists Club oratory contest. Juan took second place. (Right) Jacob Kohut and Kori Clark presented their prize-winning essays at a Daughters of the American Revolution tea. Mrs. Houshiar guided students in both competitions.



Stage crew members are Brittany Burns, Erica Donald, Tony Kaufman, JoAnn Elizalde, and Jacob Kohut. Under the direction of Mrs. Kettner, students are responsible for lighting and sound during various assemblies.

Spelling Bee team members are Sarah Jorgenson, Brandi Coffell, Jacob Kohut, Chris Seibel, Marlo Headings, Aisha Stitt, Theresa Kellogg, Laura Murday, Nicole Shastri, Jason Wazeerud-Din, and Robert Neumann. Students compete in city and county competitions, and academic track. Coaches are Mrs. Centellas and Mrs. Shastri.

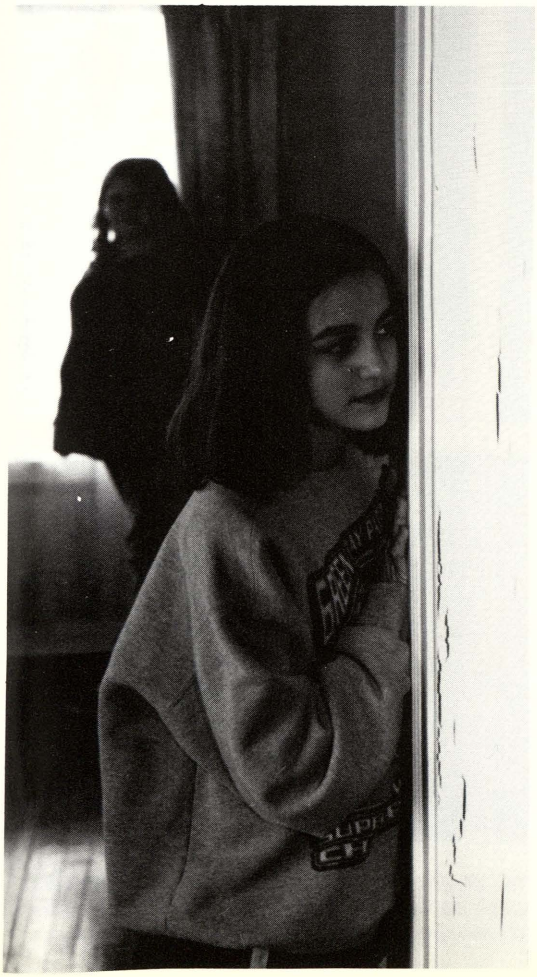
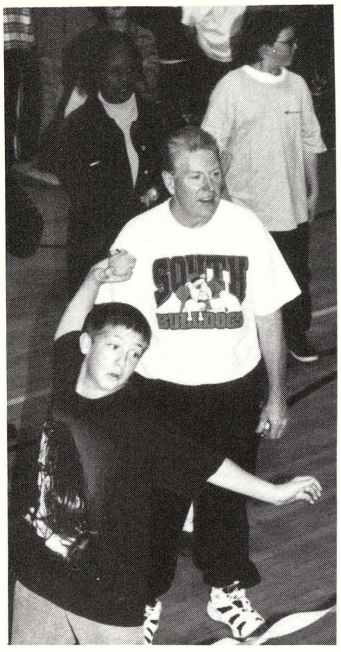
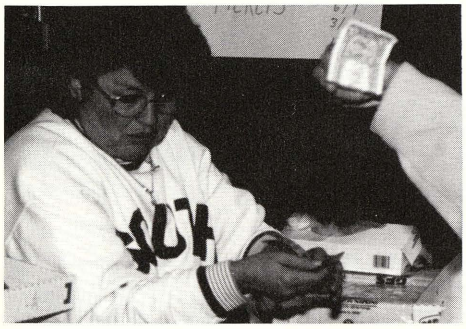
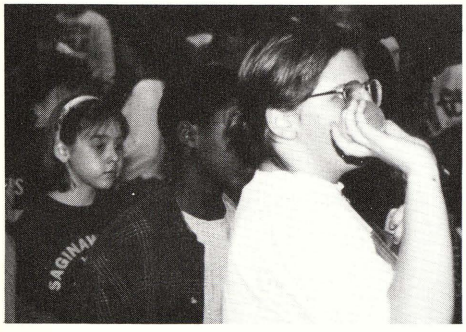
Students toured the Roethke House. The home was recently purchased by an organization that plans to restore it to use as a cultural attraction. The group also has goals for the house next door, which was in the Roethke family as well.

Students of Mrs. Houshiar gather around the back porch of the Roethke House, former home of the Pulitzer Prize winner. (The poet's sister, June Roethke, who taught at South for many years, also lived there for many years, also lived there for most of her life.) The students recited poetry and presented biographical information. Local authority Mardy Oeming spoke to the group, offering additional insight about the writer's background and work.

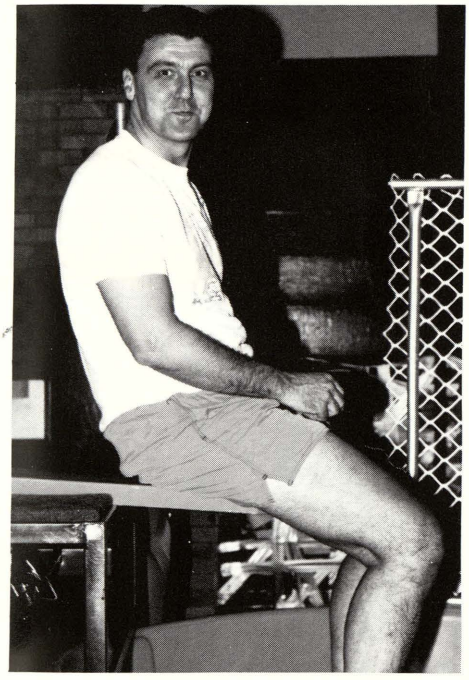


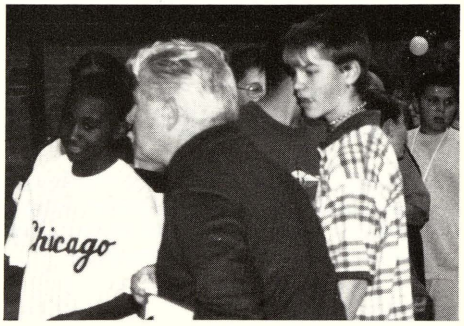


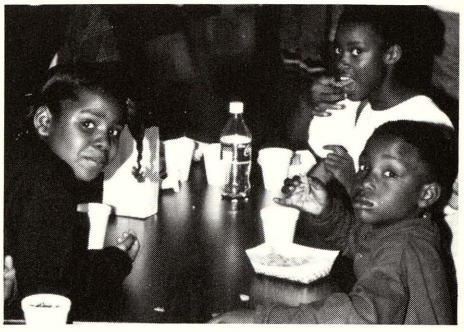




Students and staff enjoy the fun fair, organized by Mr. Ullbricht: (#1) Kiemetha Randle, (#2) Adam Richard, with Mr. Slaggert, (#3) Ms. Schulz and Mrs. Alcock; (#4) Jill Murphy in the midst of the cakewalk; (#5) Mrs. Olivarez, (#6) Mr. Makrianis walking to and then (#7) emerging from the dunk tank, (#9) Miranda Olivarez, (#10) Mrs. Webb, and (#11) Joel Fielder.







(#1) Mr. Thebolt and Mrs. Crevia run a game. (#2) Ms. Nichols sells nachos, which (#6) students consume. (#3) Mr. Frost is poised, then (#4) drenched. (#5) Mr. Ullbricht and (#8) Mr. Carlyon help out. (#7) The gym is alive.
